Jumbo Counter Books

For Single Stamps or Sets

We have prepared two new stamp books for dealers and collectors. These books are both with pages, $8\frac{3}{2}x5\frac{1}{2}$ inches in size, loose leaf and bound on the short edge. The pages are treated to make the booklets open and lay flat when in use and are with heavy antique covers. Pages are also perforated so that they may be torn from the books if desired. Pages are interchangeable. As many or as few pages may be kept in the books as desired, pages and covers are held with brass paper fasteners and the books are something that will meet with the approval of both the collector and dealer, ideal for counter sales and display.

The book for single stamps has ten large liberal sized spaces on each page so that single stamps may be mounted with ample room for notations and remarks below the stamps. Space for catalog number, catalog price and net price with each stamp. Stamps shown in this manner. without crowding, will make an attractive appearance and attractive goods help make stamp sales.

These Two New JUMBO COUNTER BOOKS Will Increase Your Counter Sales

British Guiana 1d Black

By DON HOUSEWORTH

Perspiration seemed to flow from all parts of his face and blood dripped to the carpet from his hands.

He appeared stunned by the discovery of his act and unable to account for the strange face in the room.

Hayden saw all that in a split second and then he began firing. The monstrosity was coming at him with incredible speed. As fast as his finger could work the trigger the inspector sent the bullets into that great body and then he was hurled backward to the floor under the weight of his assilant.

For a long moment neither of the two forms moved and then the inspector rolled the body from him. Slowly he got to his feet and walked to the wall safe.

"Therein must lie the secret of the mystery—the motive behind the murders." He spoke aloud, unaware that two figures watched from the door-

One was Jackson. The other an attractive woman of perhaps thirty-five. The lines were drawn deeply in the face of the man but a look of relief was unmistakable in his eyes.

The woman, hands pressed against her cheeks, swayed against her companion for support. Jackson placed one arm about her shoulders and addressed the inspector.

"Open it and you'll find the answer in the tin box."

The safe open, Hayden extracted the box and carried it to the table. It was not locked and he lifted the lid. On the bottom, in two neat rows of three each, lay squares of paper on which were printed crude designs of sailing ships.

"British Guiana 1p blacks!" exclaimed Inspector Hayden.

An hour later the three sat in the living room. Police had come and gone, the body of the stranger had been removed and quiet had settled over the house.

"There is much to be explained," began Jackson, "although you were so close to the truth that I doubt if I can any more than confirm those beliefs which brought you here today."

"There is much that I have been unable to uncover," Hayden replied, "but I have been certain that you would reveal everything eventually. While I do not yet understand the part that stamps played in this story I worked on that theory almost from the first."

"Perhaps I had better begin at the beginning," suggested Jackson, "and I believe I have neglected to introduce Miss Martin. Miss Martin is my fiancee—has been, I might say, for ten years.

"Since childhood I have been interested in postage stamps. Not only in collecting but probably more so in studying the whys and wherefores of postal issues. About ten years ago I obtained employment with the late Mr. Jones as his secretary and I pointed out to him the possibilities open to a wealthy man who might take up stamp collecting as a hobby. He became much enthused but, unfortunately, only the financial possibilities really interested him. After years of collecting he knew comparatively little about stamps and the responsibility of selecting genuine pieces and deciding upon fair purchasing prices became an ever increasing part of my duties here.

"Mr. Jones was a confirmed bachelor. So prejudiced against women was he that I never mentioned Miss Martin and the Sunday walks I took so regularly through the years served to cover my visits to her home.

"In 1915 Mr. Jones and I toured several South American countries and in the little town of Anna Regina in British Guiana we rested a month at the home of one of the town officials. In a casual way I mentioned the fact we were interested in old stamps and this fellow brought to us one day a small box filled with postage stamps that had been torn from letters. He knew nothing of stamp values and for the most part the stamps were worthless but imagine, if you can, my astonishment at taking six genuine 1p blacks from the box. Mr. Jones would not hear of my disclosing to the man how valuable the stamps might be and paid him, I think, $1,000. That was quite a fortune to our host and most satisfactory to him.
"We hrought the stamps my host the stamps were the stamps with the stamps was a fortune to him."

"We brought the stamps back here and began to lay plans for their disposition, hoping to profit probably $25,000 by the sale. However, just at that time the famous Ferrary collection was put up at auction in Paris and I saw an opportunity to make a fortune. Naturally, our stamps were as desirable as the one in the Ferrary collection if not more so. The condition of ours was much superior.

"There was no way of predicting the sale price on Ferrary's piece so I thought it best that Mr. Jones bid up to $25,000. We stood to win either way. If our bid was successful we would have all the 1d blacks in the world in our possession. If the bid of another collector was higher we stood to sell each of our stamps at an equal price if they were disposed of judiciously.

"I have neglected to say that Mr.
Jones regarded the stamps as both his and my property and we were to share equally in the profits. As you know, an American bid in the stamp at near $40,000.

"Instead of clarifying the situation the sale only complicated matters. It was impossible to dump the six stamps on the market without the grave To danger of depressing the price. float them one by one at $35,000 each was our goal.

"Yet year after year slipped by without suitable opportunities developing to place the stamps in circulation. So much for the British Guianas themselves. But there is another side of this story to be told.

"The engagement of Miss Martin and myself has been prolonged. Not because we desired it but because circumstances heretofore have stood in the way of our marriage. I had hoped that the sale of the stamps would make my financial condition such that we would be able to overcome the obstacle that had made both our lives most dreary. This obstacle, Mr. Hayden, was the man you killed. He was the brother of my intended wife. "Miss Martin has been my confident for years and for a long while outside of Mr. Jones and myself was the only person who knew of the existence of the British Guiana stamps. In our discussions of probable wealth to come from the sale we were overheard by the brother who determined to obtain possession of them.

Here Jackson paused but Miss Martin urged him to continue.

"The first tragedy did not accomplish its purpose.

"But why," asked Hayden, "since you knew the identity of the assailant of Jones, did you not reveal the circumstances to me and prevent Ebert's death?"

"I can answer that better than Mr. Jackson," replied the woman. "William, my brother, was not normal. In fact, his excessive physical development as a boy so affected his mind ment as a boy so affected his mind that he was not responsible for his acts. You will say that he should have been confined in an institution. That would have been the proper course. But my father would not hear of it and his dying wish was that I devote myself to the care of William. For years he has been confined at home. It was only recently that he learned of these stamps and it became impossible to control him. Money would have meant nothing to him in his condition but such queer minds are not to be reasoned with. You can readily appreciate, Mr. Hayden, how Mr. Jackson and myself were torn between duty and affection after the death of Mr. Jones."

"But after the second murder-"Our opportunity to surrender William to the police was gone. He did not return home after attacking Mr. Ebert but Mr. Jackson hoped to cap-ture him here. It was almost certain that he would make another attempt to get the stamps. Several times I have appeared on radio broadcasts from a station here in the city and after this trouble began I feared to communicate with Mr. Jackson by telephone because of the possibility the police would trace the calls. So I arranged for Mr. Jackson to listen to the studio staff program each evening, certain that I would be permitted to sing at that time if I insisted. Tonight William came home but left immediately. Fearing that something terrible might happen again I called Mr. Jackson away from here."

Inspector Hayden lit another cigarette and walked to the door.

"Your will, I suppose, names Miss Martin as beneficiary?' The ques-The question was directed to Jackson. Yes."

"And your brother was aware of at?" This to the woman.
"Yes, he knew." that?"

"Then Ebert's death is explained. The cunning of the criminally insane is indeed amazing. If Chief Sullivan had his way Jackson would have been charged with both murders and your brother might have prowled about this house at his leisure. Had anything happened to Jackson his estate, including the stamps, would have reverted to you and thence to William. But for the chance I was here tonight he would certainly have obtained them."

Inspector Hayden left the house and walked slowly away. At the corner he met a patrolman who was to remain in the vicinity during the night. They conversed for a few moments.

Then.
"The house is burning!" exclaimed the patrolman and both ran to it. In the street they found Jackson and Miss Martin watching. Billows of flame could be seen through the windows

"Did you get the stamps?" Hayden asked.

Jackson shook his head slowly and smiled.

A number of notable displays by adult collectors were also on view. The most outstanding of which was the Confederate stamps of Charles E. Kistler. Among the gems which he showed was an unused block of the 10c Confederate with outer frame line. He also showed a superb mint block of ten of the 10c rose. It is stated that Mr. Kistler has in his collection of Confederates a single and a block of four of every stamp, both unused and on cover, besides a remarkable lot of Provisionals and "PAID" covers.

U. S. REVIEW

Thomas F. Whitbread 6 Wildwood Rd., Larchmont, N. Y.

As stated last week, we are indebted to Mr. L. M. Ryer for the following explanation of the difference between "Shifts" and "Double Transfers." Our explanation must, of necessity, be brief and we suggest communicating direct with Mr. Ryer at 1932 E. Calhoun St., Seattle, Wash., if your interest in this material goes deeper than our summary.

A "Shift" occurs in the following manner. When the transfer roll is applied to the plate tremendous pressure is exerted in order to sink the design on the roll in the plate. This roll is rocked back and forth over the plate several times until the design is impressed sufficiently deep. At any time during this process the pressure may cause the plate to shift slightly. When this happens the design on the transfer roll will not exactly coincide with the design previously impressed on the plate on the rolls next trip across the plate. When the plate is printed this causes a doubling of the lines of the design in the direction in which the design has been rolled.

A "Double Transfer" is the result of something entirely different. After the plate has been completely rolled in it Should any is given an inspection. mistakes be found the designs of these poor stamps are tapped out and the plate polished. The design is then re-rolled in the plate. Now if any trace of the original design still remains on the plate these lines will appear on the new impression thus giving us a doubling of some parts of the design.

The distinction between these two forms of doubling is quite technical and, for the average collector, the fact that there is a doubling of the design in either will be sufficient. The more studious will do well to communicate with Mr. Ryer as suggested above.

While on the subject of corrections we present another from Mr. J. Delano Bartlett on the subject of Double Papers on the Banknote Issues. As we have explained before, the soft porous paper used by the American Banknote Co., shows pinpoints of light and dark, similar to thin blotting paper when held up to a light. According to Mr. Bartlett neither these, nor the transparent papers are ever doubled and may therefor be eliminated. As the doubles are printed on soft paper that leaves us only copies which do not show alternate light and dark. These may then be tested as follows: Take the corner of the stamp that has a good strong perforation. Work this perforation about one mm. back and forth with the finger or tongs enough to make it soft but not to break it. Then, with the aid of a glass, it can be seen whether the two papers are coming apart. If it shows that there are two papers then work the paper as first mentioned about five mm, and the paper will come apart.

Our thanks to these men for their help in clearing up two difficult prob-

Two Copies Now Known

The May 12 issue of this paper carried a small news note on the discovery of a 2c U.S. stamp of the 1914-15 issue which is a mate to the 1c value Number 424a as listed by Scott. The stamp is perf. 12 at top and bottom and 10 at sides.

The first copy was reported by Mr. D. Van Voorhis of Hyndman, Pa., and now we hear from Mr. R. W. Bonnage of Beaver Falls, Pa., who states that he also has a copy of this stamp as described. Mr. Bonnage states that the copy in his possession was first found by him about eight months ago.

Collectors are urged to look for further copies of this variety, which if found may prove the existence of a heretofore unrecorded variety.

Some months ago it was announced that a new series of stamps were in prospect for Great Britain. At that time it was pointed out that among all stamps of the British Empire the stamps for Great Britain were about the poorest looking in the lot.

New British Stamps Coming

Now comes word from Mr. Jules Jacobs of New York in which he states that he picked up an announcement over his short wave radio set on May 29th, in which it was stated that a complete new set of stamps for Great Britain would be issued on Oc-George V in relief on a solid back-ground. Brighter colors throughout the set will make it more attractive and if we can believe previous announcements, this set should be something more snappy than any previous Add daffynitions: a stamp is something that is good when it isn't good and when it is good it sometimes isn't any good (for postage, we mean) . . . things us mere stamp collectors would like to glimpse: a complete collection of U. S. envelopes, a collector who never "found" anything, Lithuanian airmails on commercial mail, a postoffice with only well-centered stock, a time when our favorite P. O. Dept. knew its mind two weeks in advance, some Roumanian stamps without Andy Gump, er-ah King Carol prominently in the foreground.

Add a thought . . .judging his publicity blurbs most any day now we expect to hear a request for Insull's picture on a stamp as a patriot . . . if they do, what do ya want to bet it'll be a stock transfer? . . . appropriate certainly.

If you think this stuff is awful to wade through just wait till us members of the Amalgamated Philatelic Scribblers Union pull a strike too and all you get to read is cachet columns . . . our esteemed contemporary Walter of Broadway made a phil. boner some weeks back but its so old now we won't mention it.

NORTHWESTERN STAMP COMPANY 152 W. Wisconsin Ave. Milwaukee, Wis.

As Others See Us

Stamps and stamp collecting have been the subject of many clever cartoons within the past year. Even the comic strips have made sport of our hobby and with just cause.

While we feel that all the new stamps that appear are a good advertisement for Philately and for stamp collecting and that their issue has been one of the big factors that have helped to make many more stamp collectors, we can not help but agree with those who make sport of the hobby when we are calm enough to look at it through eyes which forget that we ourselves are stamp collectors.

One of the best things that has come to our office in the past year is a clipping from the New York Journal, sent us by W. E. Rosst of Brooklyn, N. Y. It is a comic strip by "Haenigsen" who shows by his handling of his subject which is titled "It Won't Be Long Now," that he thoroughly understands we collectors.

The strip is made up of six pictures from which we hope to be able to quote the story that is told.

In the first picture the prospective customer steps up to the stamp window at the post office and states "good afternoon, I would like to purchase a 3c stamp." The clerk replies, "Certainly, step right inside. I'll be glad to show you what we have."

In the second right was conducted to the second right with the second right was conducted to the prospective to the prospective to the prospective that the second right was conducted to the prospective that the second right was conducted to the prospective that the prospective that

In the second picture the clerk is showing the customer a sheet of stamps and remarks, "Of course we stock the Mother's Day, Century of Progress, NRA, Mayflower, Maryland, National Parks and the rest, but these are this week's new designs for three centers, rather good, don't you think?" To which the prospective customer replies, "Um-m-m-m, yes, they are very nice but not quite what I want."

In the third picture while still looking at the full sheet, the clerk says, "If you could possibly wait till Wednesday we'll have a batch of new issues in, there'll be a Mickey Mouse and a Popeye and an Amos 'n' Andy and others." The prospective customer says, "I'm sorry but I've got to have it tomorrow."

In the fourth picture the obliging clerk inquires, "Do you have anything definitely in mind?" The prospect replies, "Well, you see, Wednesday is our cook's birthday, we thought it would be nice to send her a greeting and I hoped to find an appropriate stamp."

H. E. HARRIS & CO., 108 Mass. Ave., BOSTON

In number five picture the clerk is shown calling Washington on long distance phone and the conversation is, "Hello, give me Washington 1776. Hello, I want to speak to the Postmaster General. Hello, Mr. Farley, say I have a customer here and—"

While in the sixth and last picture we find the clerk telling the customer, "Mr. Farley says if you leave instructions for just what you want, he'll have it printed and send it to you by plane in the morning." To which the customer replies, "That's fine! Here's her picture. Just put on it 'Happy Birthday to Hulda.' Thanks awfully!"

All of which must seem like an ordinary day's business in our postoffice department with the multiplicity of new stamps that comes to the ordinary business man in his daily activities.

New Decatur Clerk?

Advices from various sources indicate that a new navy mail clerk is on the job on the U. S. S. Decatur, a ship that formerly was a hard one to get any cancels. I understand an accommodating naval officer named Jowdy is now the mail clerk and that he is cancelling. It is to be hoped this ends the poor service formerly noted on this ship. For criticism re-garding my former statement about the Decatur, my compliments to the conductor of another naval column who "collects for pleasure, not prof-it," then proceeds to send out a gang of third class postage, odd-size cov-ers to those who send him a dollar, thereby profiting him to the extent of 50 cents or so per order.

It is all a question OUR MANY NEW STAMPS of how you look at it. Some collectors complain, some approve of the many new and beautiful stamps that are to come. Even the newspapers are giving much attention to these new issues outside of their stamp feature pages. Never before have stamps attracted the attention of the cartoonists, as they are attracting that attention today.

This is a healthy sign, a good bit of advertising for stamp collecting. In no other way could philately get so much publicity as comes to it through the many new stamps that are appearing.

All of this publicity is certain to add new recruits to our ranks. New recruits means more business for the stamp dealer. Based on the law of percentages it means increased value for your stamp collection. On the whole, the real stamp collector should applaud rather than condemn these

The greatest number of complaints probably arise from that type of collector who wants to gobble up the new issues in every form in which they can be obtained.

This type of collector usually has a haphazard collection lacking thoroughness or completeness in any direction.

He has a collection that has a lot of used stamps, a lot of unused stamps. He has some blocks of both kinds, a few plate numbers, numerous first day covers and even a few sheets salted away but in none of the divisions mentioned has he anything like a complete or thorough showing.

This is the type of collector who has a limited amount to invest in stamps and naturally he becomes disappointed because he can not afford all of these new varieties in all the different ways that they have come to be collected by stamp collectors.

There is just one out for such a man. If he is wise enough to follow that course he will get more enjoy-ment from his collection, his collec-tion will become one that will attract attention at his local stamp exhibits, its value will increase beyond its pres-ent worth and in the end he will have less worry about keeping it up to date.

Pick your line-collect some definite thing. Either mint singles, used singles, mint blocks or used blocks, perhaps plate number blocks or first day covers, but unless you can afford to do so, do not go after all of them for you can get nowhere in such a wav. If you will concentrate your limited amount of cash on any one definite line you will eventually be able to build a collection that can be noted for its thoroughness and complete-ness in your chosen field and such a collection even though the actual catalog value is no more than a haphazard lot of things you now have, will be of more actual cash value if offered for sale and it will bring you more satisfaction and more glory when shown to your friends.

THE RUMOR THAT POSTMASTER General Farley was to pose with false whiskers for the Santa Claus stamp which he announced at a Washington Press conference is denied. It is stated that Mr. Farley has been barred due to the custom which forbids the picture of a living person on our stamps.

YET WHO WOULD MAKE A FINER looking Santa Claus than big smiling genial Jim Farley? When it comes to playing Santa Claus, he has "IT".

HAVE YOU NOTED ANY ACTION by the Federation of Stamp Clubs as regards the Special Delivery "Kick Back Racket" that is flooding the country with cancelled commemoratives at prices that ruin all the legitimate used blocks you have been able to acquire?

At the meeting of the Columbus Philatelic Club on May 18, the above title was the subject for the evening program.

Professor James Osborn Lord, who is Associate Professor of Metallurgy at Ohio State University, used his microscope and his camera to show members of the club many things that it has been difficult for collectors to see with an ordinary magnifying glass.

The exhibit and talk was one of the most interesting that has been given before the club and many details relative to United States stamps were shown in a manner that made them clear to all who were in attendance.

Perhaps it is worthy of note that certain accepted details of minor varieties as illustrated in the catalogue were shown to be mere dreams of the cataloguers when exposed to the powers of Photomicroscopy.

The most abused subject was the 1c stamp of the 1870-73 issue in which the catalogues show the secret mark variety as having a very neat crescent cut into the largest of the three pearls at the left of the numeral.

Under the Photomicroscope this spot or speck turns out to be just a misshapen dash without any definite shape, just a plain scratch or dash.
Professor Lord also showed by demonstration, just why it is impossible to counterfeit engraved stamps by the Photographic process.

T. F. MORGAN, COLUMBUS, OHIO 1420 Meadow Road

The big news of the week is the announcement of dates and place for the P. S. S. Convention. This year it will be held at Philadelphia under the sponsorship of the Penn Pre-cancel Club. Hotel Sylvania, in the heart of the city will be the official hotel and arrangements have been made for moderate rates. Every kind of entertainment has been arranged for and Buro collectors should make an effort to attend. Full details may be found in the Precancel Bee for May. The dates: August 23, 24, 25. Be there!

A letter from Moriz Bernstein, Sec'y of the Penn Precancel Club enlarges on the entertainment features planned and sends samples of the convention labels. Thanks, and I certainly will use them and boost the convention.

Mr. Adolf Gunesch, of Chicago, honors us with copies of the No. 73 and 94 Lynn, Mass., Buros. Thanks, Mr. Gunesch and also thanks for permission to reprint part of the Precancel Optimist. It certainly will have to go some, to keep on a par with the excellence of the first issue.

My mail has been all balled up with the question, "What is the address of the Precancel Bee you mention in the last issue?" Therefore I hasten to advise all and sundry. The Precancel Bee is published by Stephen G. Rich, 170 Claremont Ave., Verona, N. J. Get busy Mr. Rich, and get those boys on the old sub list.

Andorra Private Air Mails

Those of our readers who have seen a set of pictorial Air Mail stamps from Andorra may be interested to know that this is a private issue made at the beginning of 1932 to frank mail (presumably in addition to the rates for ordinary postage) on an air service which is said to have been between Andorra and Barcelona, at about this date. This service, we learn, com-menced in the latter part of 1931 and, at first, was only a passenger and freight route. The man promoting it applied to the Spanish and Andorran authorities for permission to carry mail, but he died soon after it was granted. His successors, who issued the stamps, badly neglected the service which finally ceased to operate altogether. The stamps thus issued are of not sufficient official standing to deserve catalog rank.

Another Father Cox Cachet

Father James R. Cox of Old St. Patrick's Church, Pittsburgh, Pa., who has for several years conducted a pil-grimage to the Holy City and the shrines of Europe, makes his annual departure June 20. This year he is sponsoring two interesting commemo-rative cachets—one for the 50th anniversary of the presentation of the Statue of Liberty to the United States by France to be mailed from Paris, July 4th, and the other will commemorate the 300th anniversary of the Passion Play and will be mailed from Oberammergau. Cachets by the way, are specially designed envelopes mailed on anniversary dates of impor-tant events and from the locale of the event. Cachet collecting has become a great fad in America, particularly among stamp collectors. Father Cox sponsored one from Vatican City last year for the opening of Holy Year. The cachets from Paris and Oberammergau may be secured by collectors and others by sending your name and address to Father Cox with 25 cents for each cachet. Whatever profit there is will be devoted to Father Cox's work among the poor and jobless. He will personally take these cacheted envelopes abroad for mailing to you.

Change Your Order On Parks Stamps

On behalf of all stamp dealers who are advertising First Day Covers of the new National Parks Stamps, Linn's Weekly wants to call attention of those who have ordered complete sets on first day covers, that latest advices are that the stamps will be issued at different dates or in such manner that a complete set can not be supplied on first day cover.
It may be that it will be possible to get a complete set used on a cover on the day of the issue of the last stamp in the set, but this will be a matter that dealers will have to arrange.

Therefore, to all who have already placed orders for complete sets on First Day Covers it is suggested that you write your dealer at once and either change your order or make arrangements which will be satisfactory to yourself.

C. HAHN for STAMPS is a signature that has appeared beneath advertising in this publication for many months. During the past years Mr. Charless Hahn who operates the business has done business exclusively through the mail from a Post Office Box number.

He is now branching out with a view to catering more completely to local trade as well as building up his mail business. New quarters have been taken at Room 10, 545 Lincoln Ave., Winnetka, Ill. A special room has been fitted up for collectors to gather in where the latest stamp publications and books are on the reading tables.

The Binghamton Philatelic Society, Binghamton, N. Y., will hold its second annual banquet and exhibition on Saturday, June 23rd. Collectors in the vicinity who wish to attend should address Mr. Donald D. Burgess, 206 Press Building, Binghamton.

Opportunities

Most of us do not recognize opportunities until they have passed. Our honest opinion is that the time to buy stamps at favorable discounts from the catalogue listing is about passed and that next season will bring a new deal in the stamp market. Collectors will look hackward next winter and wish they had deal in the stamp market. Collectors will look backward next winter and wish they had purchased packets, sets and single stamps during the summer months. Let us know what you want. We will gladly submit prices on anything we have in stock or are able to obtain. We will send general foreign approval selections to collectors who submit references.

Information regarding new issues and notes of interest on all Precancels, other than Buro Prints, should be sent direct to the Editor of this column. K. M. GIERHART, BALTIMORE, OHIO

Recently two long debated subjects were dragged forth and aired again. I think the boys have to do that to kinda keep in step with the women's spring house cleaning. Anyway the good Rev. Van Voorhis over in the hills of Pennsylvania took sides against Mr. Adolph Gunesch when he made some sort of a statement that all handstamp precancels should be deleted from the catalog. This statement tho is not original with Mr. Gunesch but was also a long time ago made by Vic Rotnem, a dealer and publisher of the catalog of a few years back. At the time Mr. Rotnem quoth himself he held a considerable stock of precancels and likewise does Mr. Gunesch. So when two such esteemable gentlemen as these are willing to sacrifice a portion of their stocks for the stabilization of the hobby it makes one wonder a little. hobby it makes one wonder a little. Personally I think it is too late now to do any such thing as that but I do think it would have been wise a dozen years ago. Take up your pen now boys and let's hear your views on the matter.

The other subject was an old question which was going to be debated at the New York Precancel some few days back. The question was stated something like this:—Should Precancels be priced according to their scarcity or according to the demand? That precancels are priced more according to their scarcity than to the demand cannot be denied, yet the price paid always seems to adjust itself to the demand. A low priced stamp in demand will sell readily at a large percentage of its catalog value altho no apparent shortage of the stamp is foreseen, while a high priced stamp must be sacrificed at a large discount or not sold at all, despite the fact it really is uncommon, if there is little demand for the stamp. Enough of that, you always get back where you start from and accomplish nothing when arguing about such a subject. Whether the New York Precancel Society made any decision or not I have been unable to find out.

With the National Park Set in the offing I hear some predicting that the new set will be more popular and supnew set will be more popular and sup-plant the Washington Bi-Centennial set. This I don't believe for several reasons. First the odd size of the stamps will be harder to handle and many of the larger firms will stick to the regular postage stamps. Next I don't think the set will be issued with the idea that it is supposed to partly the idea that it is supposed to partly supplant the regular issue as the Bi-Cents were and will not be issued in as large numbers. With the advent of the Bi-Centennial set I note a revival of made to order or tailor-made precancels as some are wont to call them. This is one of the stigmas of the hobby. Collectors not content with the precancels that ordinarily come their way set out by hook or crook to manufacture a few extra for themselves. In times past when the catalog was issued regularly a very low price or none at all was placed on such tripe and this served somewhat to dissuade the gentry from the pursuance of such practices. Of late the everyone has his own price for uncatalogued material and it is again profitable.

The Chicago Precancel Club has started out a little four page leaflet which seems to be getting so popular with precancel clubs and calls it "The Precancel Optimist". Vol. 1, No. 1, came to my desk a few days ago.

Probably before the National Park Set is issued we will have a WISCON-SIN stamp. So keep your eyes open and let me see the first one you come across.

We are sorry to hear of the death of the mother of Louis Weissmann, the well known dealer situated at 87 Nassau Street.

Dealers in the New York area are warned to be on the lookout for two "Merit" expansion stock books stolen from the office of the New England Stamp Company, Boston, Massachusetts. One book had U. S. stamps beginning with No. 28 and ending with No. 734. The second book contained unused U. S. parcel post, special de-livery, used and unused U. S. possessions. Their address is 53 Bromfield Street.

We see that it costs $1,020 for the Rogers Clark, $830 for the Norse Americans, $985 for the Yorktown, $172 for the Mother's Day and the NRA only $60 per million to print. At the same time why can't stamps be perforated as well as those printed by England. We certainly have to take our hats off to "Johnny Bull" for centering. Some day "Uncle Sammy" will wake up to the fact that ALL U. S. stamps can be sent from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing well centered and won't U. S. philatelists be happy.

American Stamp Company holds forth at 1775 Broadway. new company on us.

Sometime ago we balled up two different dealers called King. At last we were able to meet Harry King, located at 116 Nassau Street, and found him an agreeable dealer with a nice stock on hand. When on Nassau Street it would pay you to drop in to see Mr. King, who has a nice lighted office in a philatelic building.

A book called OLD WAYBILLS, The Romance of the Express Companies, has just been released by D. Appleton-Century Company. New Appleton-Century Company, New York. The price is $5 and the author is Alvin F. Harlow. This is a detailed study of the Express Company Carriers and is a rambling and anecdotal book. Every specialist should have this book.

NEWS FROM BEVERLY

National Parks Stamps New Wisconsin Stamp

The National Parks Stamps

will probably be issued a few at a time, over a period of some weeks instead of all at once, according to a late wire from Washington. This allows greater time for printing and we may expect even finer work on these superb stamps. The first ones will appear about July 1st, others following at short intervals.

about July 1st, others following at short intervals.

Refer to our big advertisement in LINN'S of last week. All offers remain good and unchanged with the exception of Special G (all ten stamps on one large cover). Since the stamps are to be issued on different days this cover will have to be mailed on the day the LAST stamp is issued, whenever that may be. If any customer prefers to do so he may change his order for this cover, sending the additional amount necessary to obtain any of groups A to F inclusive instead of G. All orders for A to F hold good, as the covers will be mailed the day each stamp is issued.

The greatest value of course, is in one or more of Groups A to F, where ten different covers are sent, each bearing one variety of the series in singles, pairs, blocks, etc. Then if you also order Special G mailed on the day the final stamp appears, and bearing all ten varieties, you will have the perfect collection, complete in every way. Refer to our ad of last week for details or send for our bulletin, but do it NOW, for time is very short.

Orders for mint stamps will be mailed when the last stamp ap-ears unless you send additional postage so that we can mail ach variety as soon as it appears. Postage and registration addional on all mint stamp orders.

Except for the above advice there is NO CHANGE in our offers

The New Wisconsin Stamp

Celebrating the tercentenary of Jean Nicollet's discovery of that state, has been announced by the Postmaster General. It should be a 3c value, depicting some scene with that historic event of 1634. Date of issue not yet announced, but may be within a very short time. The stamp will be issued both in Washington and in some Wisconsin city, on the same or following days.

We have prepared a beautiful first-day cover in two colors, with a striking historical design by Captain Coltrin, our own exclusive artist; a cover up to the same superb standard set by Bewerly covers for every event. These covers will be mailed direct to you as follows:

Single stamp on cover		From Washington $.15	Both Covers $.25
Pair on cover		.20	.35
Block of four on cover		.30	.50
Plate No. block of six on cover	1.00	1.00	1.75
All covers as above		1.50	2.75

Unused Wisconsin stamps will not be enclosed in first-day covers, but will be mailed immediately afterwards under separate cover. Price: 5c per stamp, any quantity, postage (and registration wanted) extra in every case. Plate number stamps unused can be furnished only when complete sheets of 100 stamps are ordered. Terms: Same as last week. No stamps accepted in payment.

Essay Contest on Wisconsin

In line with our educational policy we announce for the Wisconsin stamp an essay contest open to every person who orders one or more of our Wisconsin first-day covers. Essays must not be more than 1,000 words in length, and must tell the story of Jean Nicollet's discovery of Wisconsin. Historical accuracy, reader-interest, and neatness will be the points judged.

Writers of the TEN BEST ESSAYS will have refunded to them the full price of all Wisconsin covers (not mint stamps) they have ordered. All essays accompanied by fully-paid orders for covers, must be mailed on or before July 1, 1934. If your essay is one of the ten best your money will be refunded in full, and you will get free of charge all the Wisconsin covers you have ordered. Winners will be announced in LINN'S immediately after the Wisconsin stamp is issued.
